Basic coffee pod machine, easy to use, makes hot and cold drinks, takes up very little space on the bench.Uses Nescafe Dolce Gusto pods, available online and from Coles, Woolworths and Harvey Norman for about $8.50 for a box of either 8 or 16, depending on the variety. Pods are chosen by type of drink (Americano, cappuccino, hot chocolate etc) rather than strength, so strength cannot be easily customised. Special flavours are available at some times, including Nesquik, peach iced tea and chai. Milky varieties have powdered milk and sometimes sugar included in the pod. Skip to content Skip to footer navigation The product's best features and benefits Drawbacks or issues you need to know about Reviews and ratings you can trust Easy side-by-side comparison Recommended products at a glance Recommended We recommend models which score 70% or more overall, so long as they also score well on other crucial factors including taste and milk frothing. CHOICE Expert Rating The CHOICE Expert Rating is made up of taste (60%), ease of use (20%), milk frothing ability (15%), and coffee temperature consistency over consecutive cups (5%). Taste test score Three experts test the espressos in a 'blind' tasting, checking the colour and thickness of the crema (the tan-coloured foam on the top of an espresso), aroma, flavour, mouth-feel (for example, creaminess or wateriness) and aftertaste. Ease of use score How easy the machines are to use. We try the controls, fill the water tank and the bean hopper, adjust the grinder, make a coffee, and clean inside and out. Milk frothing score We experiment with each machine to find how it best froths milk, looking for fine, pourable froth. We use what the manufacturer recommends (a milk frother, milk-based capsule or coffee capsule extracted over milk). Coffee temperature consistency score We measure the consistency of four consecutive coffees for each machine after it warms up. Brand reliability score Brand reliability scores are based on responses from more than 2700 coffee machine owners in 2019. We ask whether they have run into a problem with their appliance in the last 12 months. Scores are based on brand, not model. Not all brands have scores as we require a minimum of 50 responses per brand. Brand satisfaction score Brand satisfaction score is based on how satisfied 2724 surveyed members are with their coffee machines from a scale of excellent to terrible (survey conducted in 2019). Not all brands have scores as we require a minimum of 50 responses per brand. Measured heat-up time Not scored, but will affect how quickly you can turn out a cup of coffee. Time taken to froth 200ml milk Availability Discontinued model Price The manufacturer's recommended retail price. Prices are often flexible, so shop around both online and in bricks-and-mortar stores for options. $169 Shop Ethical rating Shop Ethical rates the environmental and social impact of the company (not the product or the pod supplier, if applicable) using independent sources. This rating is not included in our total score. N/A means there is no rating for that company D Capsule type The recommended capsule (pod) type for each model. Nespresso (original) refers to the older-style capsules, while Nespresso Vertuo is the newer patented and barcoded system which comes in different sizes (these are incompatible with third-party capsules). Nescafe Dolce Gusto Type of heating system Thermoblock heats up only a very small quantity of water on demand as it flows through the system. Boilers heat a larger amount of water and keep it heated fairly consistently. A dual boiler includes two boilers; one for making coffee and one for steaming. Heat exchanger models use a single boiler but are designed to produce coffee and steam at the same time. Thermoblock Water reservoir capacity (L) 0.8 Stated pump pressure (bar) The pressure the pump exerts when pushing hot water through the ground beans; measurement given in 'bar'. Some trial and error with the pressure and grind is required. A high bar does not necessarily mean a superior machine. I was delighted that I received coffee pods as a bonus. It came with all the necessary instructions which is quite easy to follow. I found the milk pods to taste quite powdery. It did not suit my taste buds at all,which led me to using only coffee pods and then adding milk in at the end. This was a disappointment for me,as my usual coffee is a cappuccino or latte.I did,however, find the coffee to taste quite good. The machine is extremely easy to use. I could enjoy a coffee w...Read moreith the touch of a button. I found the water tank quite small, however I am the only coffee drinker in my household, so it suited me nicely. The biggest negative I found was that the water was not getting hot enough, for me to enjoy my coffee. I also liked the option of choosing a hot coffee or a cold coffee.Purchased in February 2019 at Catch Deal for $69.Build QualityValue for MoneySee all answersSimilar opinion? Aesthetically pleasing. Many different pod options. The only con is that the pods are quite expensive (about $8.50) but they taste great. Overall great machine for the price i paid.Similar opinion? Dolce Gusto Jovia EDG250B (Black)VerifiedI love my coffee..My daughter bought me the Delonghi Dolce Gusto Jovia EDG250 in Black... ok so it's small yes and compact but it's so easy to use and the coffee pods are reasonably priced... the only thing with this is although it's a small coffee machine you can only have enough water for 2 coffees at a time.. but for me it's perfect cause thankfully it's only hubby and I in my household and I don't have many guests as I am in a country town.. so if your a coffee lover and want a decent coffee instead of instant all the time the Delonghi Dolce Gusto Jovia EDG250 is perfect..Similar opinion? Write a review on ProductReview.com.au! Dolce Gusto Jovia EDG250B (Black)Very good for 5 years with 3 machines,then began to regret not being able to use other pods than nespresso.Recently noticed watery taste in the Espresso Intenso pods and they were hard to obtain (Woolies even told us they had discontinued them !) then they reappeared on the shelf with a tag on the box claiming a "new formula" but it still tasted weaker and Lo and Behold we see that the pods had been reduced in volume from 8gr. to 6gr.or 25%...! so we contacted Nespresso/Nescafe and they gave a very muddled story about percentages of arabica ble...Read morend etc.We are so cheesed of we are right now looking at machines that are not reliant on one maker product and definitely not Nestle/Nescafe/Nespresso.This smacks of a blatant move to increase the "bottom line" and the consumer can go jump..Very poor recommendation.Similar opinion? However, I really wish the capsules had a little more in them. Hot chocolate tastes fine to me but the coffee that is made is slightly weak and tastes watery (although I put the recommended amount of water, and not using enough water means all the powder in the capsule isn't used anyway). It's not the best coffee machine, but it's easy to operate and to clean. It does get dirty easily and although it's a decently big machine, it's easily handled for cleaning. I would recommend this for people that need a quick coffee fix any time of day, unless you are really bothered by the taste.Similar opinion? Write a review on ProductReview.com.au! Dolce Gusto Jovia EDG250B (Black)I bought this because it was cheap, however, at the time, I did not know that it would require special Dolce Gusto capsules, I thought it would just be the standard nepresso ones.. And it did not have an auto-stop feature, I thought it would. So you will have to make sure you measure the amount of coffee/hot chocolate put out and stop it manually otherwise, it tastes horrible!!!And It broke down less than 2 years, with less than 50 uses in total... Not going to buy it again.Similar opinion? Write a review on ProductReview.com.au! Not a coffee drinker myself, I've used it for many a hot chocolate. I don't love that I need to 'guesstimate' how much water i need to run through the machine, as sometimes you don't get it right and you get a really watery hot choc. It was cheap and does the job, but the necessity of some capsule packs being half coffee pod, half milk pod means you often pay a pretty penny for only 8 or so coffees. The water does heat up quite fast, and it's easy to clean & looks great on my counter, but I think i'll invest in an automatic machine next time.Similar opinion? Write a review on ProductReview.com.au! Dolce Gusto Jovia EDG250B (Black)The taste is ok since I don't really have any opinions but dolce gusto pods. Easy to operate manually but hard to decide how much water for one pod. Just the cheapest way to get a fast pod cafe at home. Not really recommend if you have some more budget because you will have no other options for other pods.Similar opinion? Write a review on ProductReview.com.au! Write a review on ProductReview.com.au! Dolce Gusto Jovia EDG250B (Black)Not a bad little unit - especially for one at the less expensive end of the market but, a) the pods rarely go on special and b) i worry about the environmental impact of plastic and c) the health impacts of forcing boiling water through plastic. Will probably keep for emergencies but am on the lookout for a machine that uses or grinds the coffee itself next time rather than pods.Similar opinion? Write a review on ProductReview.com.au!
